Thank you for helping us celebrate Alberta's diverse cultural expressions

On behalf of Premier Notley and the Government of Alberta, thank you for your participation in Alberta Culture Days 2016.

I had the opportunity to take in a number of events from September 30 to October 2 and was absolutely astounded at the enthusiasm, passion, and love for arts and culture expressed all across the province. With the support of our community organizations and wonderful artists, Alberta Culture Days 2016 was a tremendous success.

Albertans are passionate about culture, as it plays an important role in building our communities. It is a reflection of our society, a reflection of who we are. I am extremely proud that Alberta's cultural sector makes vital contributions to the economy, job creation, the social development of our communities, and the overall health of the province. Alberta Culture Days plays a key role in increasing awareness, accessibility, participation, and engagement of Albertans in the arts and cultural life of their communities. By connecting people, communities, and our province, Alberta Culture Days motivates Albertans to become more engaged as cultural advocates.

Thank you again for helping us celebrate the amazing culture in Alberta. Alberta Culture Days has always been about our people, our communities, and the wonderful contributions by so many across the province.

I look forward to 2017 when we celebrate both Canada's 150th anniversary of Confederation and the 10th anniversary of Alberta Culture Days.

Ricardo Miranda
Minister of Culture and Tourism
